

Ms. Patricia V. Sellers, an international criminal lawyer, is the Special Adviser on Slavery Crimes at the International Court and a Visiting Fellow at the University of Oxford, where she teaches on the law faculty. She is a Practicing Professor at London School of Economics and a Senior Research Fellow at the Human Rights Center of the University of California, Berkeley. She was the Special Advisor on Gender to the former Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court, Mrs. Fatou Bensouda, from 2016-2021. She was the Legal Advisor for Gender, Acting Head of the Legal Advisory Section and a prosecutor at the UN International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY) from 1994-2007 and the Legal Advisor for Gender at the UN International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR) from 1995-1999. Ms Sellers was a prosecutor on the trial teams of Akayesu, Furundzija, Kunarac, Nikolic and Oric. She has developed legal strategies that led to landmark decisions regarding sexual violence as constitutive conduct of war crimes, crimes against humanity, genocide, torture and enslavement under international criminal law.

Ms. Sellers has advised governments and civil society entities and lectured extensively on international criminal law. She has authored numerous articles, including, Missing in Action: The International Crime of the Slave Trade, Wartime Female Slavery: Enslavement?, and The International Crimes of Slavery and the Slave Trade: A Feminist Critique. She has testified as an expert witness before the Inter-American Court of Human Rights in the cases of J. v. Peru, Favela Nova Brasilia v. Brazil, Albarracín v. Ecuador and Lima and Others v. Colombia. Ms Sellers is the recipient of the prestigious Goler T. Butcher Medal and the Prominent Women in International Law Award given by the American Society of International Law. She holds an Honorary Doctorate in Law from the City University of New York, as well as an Honorary Fellow for Lifetime Achievement from the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania, her alma mater. She was featured in the Discovery Channel series, "Why We Hate" and in the acclaimed documentary film "The Uncondemned."